Nj Star Ledger Features Robert Weiner And Kyle Fleck Article, “Why Commerce Sec Ross & His Russian Ties May Be Next In Mueller Investigation”; Wash Post Leads Metro Opinion With Weiner Article “Charles County Health Risk” From Pruitt- Trump Zoning Override For Liquid Natural Gas Pollution Emissions

(Washington, DC) – The New Jersey Star Ledger and Newjersey.com today featured an article by Robert Weiner, a former White House spokesman and congressional committee chief of staff and New Jersey native, and policy analyst Kyle Fleck, “Why Commerce Secretary Ross and his Russian Ties May Be Next in Mueller’s Investigation.” The article, laying out Ross and his Bank of Cyprus Russian funding of Trump bankruptcies right through alleged financing of President Trump’s recent sex hush money payments, all from credible public sourcing provided via links in the article, is in today’s Star Ledger and its website newjersey.com at <http://www.nj.com/opinion/index.ssf/2018/05/ex-clinton-and-bush-spokesman-why-the-commerce-sec.html>.

Weiner said he timed the article with today’s National Press Club luncheon speech and questions-and-answers by Secretary Ross in Washington, DC. At the event, Ross was asked, “Have you spoken with Special Counsel Mueller on the Bank of Cyprus or Russian money ties to Trump?” Shockingly Ross offered a one-word forceful response, “NO.” Weiner added afterward, “If Mueller was watching or notified, he may now need to do so based on the public record including this article.”

Last week, Weiner wrote an oped, following attending and speaking at a Maryland Department of the Environment hearing near his and his wife’s home, “Another Health Risk Heads for Charles County,” on the blowdowns and excessive emissions not reported to the state, plus a smokestack of 50 feet instead of the standard 113.5 feet thereby blowing right into the neighborhoods, and no standard MD Health assessment, of a proposed liquid natural gas compressor station designed to make Dominion Energy the #2 LNG exporter in the country. The proposed plant would override Charles County zoning. EPA Secretary Scott Pruitt roomed with the LNG lobbyist in his now-famous cheap housing deal, plus likely made calls to him from his $43,000 now infamous secure office phone booth. At a recent White House news conference with Trump, the President of Lithuania bragged about USA LNG about to come his way.

BOTH articles were named H2 by OpEdNews-- #2 oped in the nation when published.

Weiner also reported on his questions at a recent National Press Club Headliner with former White House Communications Director Anthony Scaramucci, and interviews on the Rick Smith Radio Show for working Americans on ten stations, and Alan Nathan’s Main Street Radio show on 200 stations on American issues and politics:
